What is the Future of Austin Mill?

[Coudersport Enterprise.]

A report was sent out to some of the daily newspapers in this section last week that the Goodyear Lumber Company, which has large timber tracts in the Potato Creek region, was preparing to erect a big mill at Liberty in McKean county. However, investigation does not seem to bear out this report.

The Goodyears already have mills at Austin and Keating Summit and are building a railroad down into the Potato Creek section for the purpose of getting its hemlock timber to the above mentioned mills. Frank Greco has the contract for the construction of this extension and has a big force of men hustling the work to completion.

Then again if the company erected a new plant at Liberty it would practically mean idleness for the big plant at Austin. It is understood that people in McKean county have made an offer to the Goodyears for the purchase of the hardwood timber on Potato Creek and if it should be accepted then no doubt the hardwood would be worked up by a new mill placed in the tract, as it could be utilized cheaper there than by shipping it to the plants at Austin or Keating Summit. If the sale does become effective it will be a sad blow to Austin as the big Goodyear mill there would of a neccssity have to close down inside of two years for lack of timber to work. Then it is claimed that there is a possibility that the hemlock would also be worked up at the McKean county plant rather than at Austin.

Lane—Hughes.

Edward Hughes stole a march on his many friends at this place, by quietly stealing away, the last of the week, and taking unto himself a wife, in the person of Miss Avis Lane, of Mason Hill. Mr. Hughes left Emporium on Friday afternoon and went to Driftwood where he was joined by his future wife and Miss Rotha Kreider, of Driftwood, and Mr. Smithers, of Renovo. The party left Driftwood on the early flyer on Saturday morning and went to Niagara Falls and were quietly married on the Canadian side of the Falls on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Hughes is a young lady of Sterling worth and has been a successful teacher in Cameron county for several years and is sure to be a true helpmate to the husband of her choice. "Ed." as he is familiarly known, is one of one of our enterprising young business men, enjoying a lucrative business at this place. It is a lucky thing for Ed. and his wife that the "Ramblers" did not know anything of his approaching wedding or he certainly would have received all that was coming to him; as it is, they must abide their time and get even. The PRESS joins with Mr. and Mrs. Hughes' many friends at Emporium and vicinity in wishing them a life full of happiness.

Terrible Sufferer.

Total Loss.

We regret exceedingly to learn that Associate Judge Wykoff's loss by the late fire, reported in last week's PRESS, was a total loss, he not having any insurance. This is a terrible misfortune to Judge Wykoff in his old age. We are informed that very little furniture was saved from his residence.

Death of Wilber Bates.

A Bloody Riot.

A terrible riot and pitched battle took place last Sunday night at McKees Rocks, between the strikers and and State Constabulary, resulting in the death and injury of thirty or forty men—both troopers and strikers. The troopers, although their ranks were thinned, stood their ground until assistance arrived. Forty more Troopers are now located at McKees Rocks, No business is transacted in the town, all stores being closed and u[n]der guard. This is a terrible situation.

Lively Ride.

Iron Master Mr. Andrew Brady, last Sunday took a party of friends composed of Messrs. Thos. Gallagher, Frank Gallagher of Philadelphia and Bert Forbes on a lively ride to the ice cave, near Coudersport. They made a dandy run, spinning to Keating Summit in thirty minutes and returning, made the run from Austin in forty minutes. Frank Gallagher, who meets some speedy autoes at Bellevue-Stratford, says he never had a fast ride until last Sunday.

Geo. H. Spring, who owns what is known as "the Bosworth corner" on Fourth and Chestnut streets, arrived in Emporium on Tuesday with a contractor and crew of workmen and yesterday commenced tearing down the block occupied as stores. Mr. Spring showed us elaborated plans of the imprrovements he will push to an early completion.

Special Letter to Public of This Vicinity.

To the Readers of the Press:

We desire to announce to the people of Emporium and vicinity, that we have recently taken over the drug business heretofore carried on by Mrs. M. A. Rockwell in the post office building and have thoroughly overhauled and restocked the store in every line, so that you will not find in this section a more complete store, and invite your inspection and patronage.

The business will be known in the future as the Emporium Drug Co., and will say as an index to future policies of the store, that it will be built upon honor, fair dealing, polite attention, and liberal business methods.

It will be our constant aim to please every patron and special attention to children whom are sent upon errands and no sale will be considered complete without entire satisfaction.

From an economical standpoint, our prices speak volumes since every article in the store is of highest obtainable quality and guaranteed to you under the Pure Food and Drugs Act.

We would particularly remind you that our prescription department is stocked with the best known lines and highest quality products of drugs and chemicals ie: Merks, Wyeths, Parke, Davis. Pharmacuticals are under supervision of a competent graduate of Pharmacy.

Burglary at Cameron.

An Italian called at the P. R. R. Italian shanty, west of Cameron depot Monday evening about seven oclock, and asked for supper and lodging, which was freely given him. But when they woke up Tuesday morning, they discovered their countryman missing, also a gold watch and $13.00 in money. The watch was later found on the ground outside the shanty. He either lost it or dropped it intentionally. The man was very dark, with black curly hair hanging down over one eye, he was 5ft 5 inches tall, wore a light suit, pants lighter in color than the coat and wore tan shoes. Sheriff Norris and possee are on his trail and his arres is momentarily expected.

Miss Pauline Findlisen and Mr. William Bente, both of Emporium, Cameron county, came to Ridgway yesterday forenoon and were united in the bonds of matrimony at 1 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. A. Lesser 344 Metoxet street, by the Rev. Albert H. Keck, of Scenery Hill, Pa. Mr. Keck had come here to conduct the regular services in the First Evangelical Lutheran church and after services in the church he was requested to visit the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lesser. The reverend gentleman readily complied and performed the services which made the happy young couple one. Mr. and Mrs. Bente are among the popular young people of Emporium and after a brief wedding tour they will take up their permanent residence there.—Monday's Ridgway Daily Record, 23d.

Mr. Bente is proprietor of the Cottage Hotel, opposite P. & E. passenger depot, at this place. Their many friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

Sheiff Norris was called to Cameron on Monday to quell trouble at the Valley House. Sidney Bunce, who has worked as cook for Robert Graham, proprietor of the Valley House for the past three weeks, claiming Mr. Graham did not pay him his salary and upon demand was refused.

Later developments caused destruction to the Valley House, a window and two doors being broken. Mr. Bunce was arrested and taken to Emporium by Sheriff Norris, who took him before Squire Larrabee and plead ed not guilty. He was given a hearing and remanded for the next term of court. There was also quite a number taken along by sheriff as witnesses.

Hotel Purchase.

Mr. Chas. L. Butler last Friday closed the deal for the purchase of the Commercial Hotel, on Broad street, from Mr. Murphy; consideration $7,500. It is Mr. Butler's intention to improve his purchase as rapidly as possible. He conducts a good house and is receiving a liberal patronage.

Handsome Appearance.

John Cummings, Ex-County Treasurer, has not only one of the best gardens in Emporium but the most tasty and beautiful flower gardens and lawn. We were greatly impressed with the beauty of the scene. However, we are positive the beautiful lawn and flowers is due to the taste of John's energetic better half. Let other property owners take pattern after them.

A Good Thing.

The young men of the east ward have organized a Club under the name of "The Mountain City Social and Atheletic Association." The purpose of the Club is to afford amusement to all young men who wish to join. They are furnishing a parlor and atheletic room. This is a strictly temperate club and should be interesting to all young men of the town, who care for amusement of this kind. They have a nice location and are ready to welcome all who desire to join. Meeting every Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. All come and help a good thing along; dues small and are within reach of all.

Six O'clock Dinner.

Miss Margaret Dodson entertained several friends at an elaborate six o'clock dinner last Thursday evening, in honor of her guest, Mrs. Bertha Swetland, of Coudersport. The place cards were decorated with pansies and the table decorations consisted of nasturtions and lighted with candelabra, making a very pretty effect. Those present were: Misses Alma Hertig, Ethel Day, Myrtle Lloyd, Belle Husted, Ethel Fisher, Anna Welsh, Bessie McQuay, Vera Olmsted, Edna Clark, Messrs. Linn Strayer, Claude Rentz, Max Balcom, Raymond Klees, Scott Sterner, Frank Dodson, Charles Wiley, Clifton Larrabee and John Murray.

A few students can yet be accommodated in the dormitories of the Lock Haven State Normal School for the fall term beginning Sept. 6th. The school is usually filled during the entire year, hence the number of rooms are limited. You will make no mistake if you select this thoroughly established school. Write for a catalog.

The Editor's Kick.

A lawyer charges a man $10 for 10 minutes' conversation—the man insists on paying it. A doctor charges $1 for a prescription and the patient says: "Oh, pshaw—is that enough? An undertaker charges $100 for conducting a funeral and he is perfectly lovely with everybody inside and outside the family. A man buys a gold brick and apologises for not having bitten before. An editor walks a mile in the hot sun to get the facts of a death, or wedding function and spends three hours writing it up and tells lies praising people until he hates himself. Then if he makes an insignificant omission, or charges 5 cents straight for three extra copies he is a stingy, careless, good-for-nothing old cuss, who never gets anything right and charges four times the price of city papers twice as large.—Marion (Ga) Record

Learn to Distinguish Colors.

Late experience has shown that the colorblind may be taught to name ordinary colors correctly, although they may not see colors as others do. A conductor on the Southern railway was discharged for color blindness, when he began to study colored woolens and plants, and in five weeks passed a rigid color examination without a mistake. Dr. Brawley has overcome the disadvantage of color blindness in other persons by a like course of color study.

"Tea with Children."

"Tea," says the London Chronicle, "in the garden is one of the best-established of our mid-Victorian institutions. Mr. E. V. Time for Change.

In a real-property case before a French judge, at an early period of the revolution, the defendant, whose title was contested, proved that the estate had been in his family for more than 200 years. "Well," said the judge, "it is now full time for another family to have a turn."

WILL GO TO MEXICO

PRESIDENT TAFT TO VISIT NEIGHBORING REPUBLIC.

Action Should Put an End For All Time to Silly Idea That the Chief Executive May Not Leave Country.

It appears that Mr. Taft is not to meet President Diaz at the middle of the international bridge over the Rio Grande, after all. He is to cross the bridge and enter Mexico. President Diaz is to call on him, too, on this side of the river. He has to get permission from his congress to do this, however, as one of the laws of Mexico forbids, actually or practically, the president from leaving that country without the consent of congress. That permission, of course, has always been obtained when Gen. Diaz has asked for it.

In our case this consent is not necessary. One provision of the United States constitution provides that in the case of the president's "inability to discharge the duties of his office, the same shall devolve on the vice-president." This is the basis of the assumption that a president is not allowed to go outside the country. It may be said that, if outside the boundaries of the United States, a president could not perform his customary functions. There might be a physical as well as a political obstacle in the way. Yet this has not always acted as a deterrent. President Arthur crossed the line into Canada for a few hours, and the machinery of the government was not disarranged to any discernible degree.

Mr. Roosevelt, who smashed many precedents, went to Panama in the last half of his service, and thus was a long way and for a long time outside of the United States. He did not suppose that, during his tour, he had abdicated the presidency. Nor did the country. Mr. Taft will, when he enters Mexico, find that he is not violating any law or dangerously assailing any custom. Messrs. Arthur and Roosevelt, especially the latter, paved the way for him. A good result of his visit across the line will be that we shall probably not hear again of that fictitious barrier which compels a president to stay in the country during his term. Usually it is better for the president and the country that he remain in close touch with things at the national capital, but if he drops over to call on a neighboring potentate for a few hours the government at Washington would still live.

Foreign-Built Yacht Tax.

There is one clause in the new tariff bill which is altogether commendable. The high tax contemplated upon foreign-built yachts will provide, if it finally becomes operative, a method of aid to home shipbuilding enterprise which should long before this nave been put to use.

This clause is not designed for revenue purposes, but in its immediate effect it will produce a considerable revenue, as it will result in imposing a very heavy annual tax upon a large number of American yachts that were built in foregn yards. There are more than half a dozen yachts which, under the regulation, would have to pay an annual tonnage tax in excess of $10,000 and more than 100 that would have to pay from $1,000 to $6,000 annually. There is a means of escape for the American owners of foreign-built yachts—that of securing United States registry by paying in a lump sum 35 per cent. of the value of the ship into the national treasury. As some of the foreign-built yachts owned in this country cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, the lump-sum tax, if chosen, will sum up into an aggregate of millions.

The main purpose of the clause, it is quite apparent, is to prohibit the foreign-built yacht from American registry, or, rather, to compel Americans who are able to built yachts to build them at home. In its retroactive working the tax will be a pretty steep one, and it is probable that it will result in bringing some high-priced yachts into the market.

A Good Investment.

Secretary Knox will get his extra $100,000 for the diplomatic service without any questioning. The money is to be spent in advancing American commercial interests in the orient and in Latin America, and in paving the way for the new diplomacy of commerce and finance to do effective work. The request for the additional appropriation indicates that the moves which have been made in China are but the beginning of a comprehensive plan already mapped out. The investment will bring good return.

President's Valuable Service.

Some Democratic newspapers may attack the president out of a sense of partisan obligation and try to show that he failed to bring to terms the Republican-Democratic "stand patter" combination in the senate. But no critic of the new law professing to be impartial can afford to undervalue the president's service in making it what it is. That service will prove historical, for it will mark a welcome turning point in the history of tariff legislation.

Keeping Up with Bryan.

We do not know what position Mr. Bryan will take next; he keeps us guessing all the time as to what we should do or should not do to keep in touch with him.—Charleston News and Courier.

Bryan does not approve of the tariff. Bryan's opinion on that or any other subject is of little consequence

SECURITY FOUNDED ON ROCK.

Point Made by Gov. Hughes In His Seattle Address Is Particularly Pertinent Just Now.

To declare that "our security is in the educated intelligence of the average man," in his appreciation of duty as well of personal right, is not to advance a startling discovery in social science. Yet this point, made by Gov. Hughes in his address at Seattle, is particularly pertinent and refreshing at this time, and the whole passage in which it is presented will bear reiteration.

We are told that the income tax amendment spells revolution and the downfall of the states. We are told that direct primaries and the growing resort to the referendum and recall are destructive of representative government. We are warned of the steady approach of socialism by one set of gloomy prophets and of the growth of executive usurpation and bureaucratic tyranny by another set of alarmists. What has been described as "the apocalyptic style" has been greatly in evidence of late in polemical discussions of new taxes and proposed politico-industrial reforms.

That is why such sane, strong, convincing sentences as those of Gov. Hughes are so "grateful" just now. There is no chance for the demagogue, no possibility of "revolution," if "we are to be ruled by intelligent public opinion." Our truest safeguards are not constitutional provisions difficult to change, not checks and balances devised generations ago, but "the growing appreciation of justice" and the common sense of the democratic electorate. Majorities are not mercurial; theories count for little with them. Needed changes are secured long after their realization ceases to threaten "revolution," and no force in human society is equal to that of the influence of the average character and the average educated intelligence of the community.

Gov. Hughes would do everything to strengthen the conception of our common interest, to facilitate education by discussion and experience, to guide opinion aright and insure orderly development of laws and institutions. The success of democracy depends on mental and moral education, and it is impossible to do too much for such education. But to distrust "intelligent public opinion" is to despair of human progress.

The Revision of the Tariff.

A tariff law much worse than the final draft of the Payne-Aldrich law would be accepted with gratitude and relief by the commercial and manufacturing interests of the country if it carried with it definite assurances that no further agitation of the subject need be expected for ten or a dozen years. Business would adjust itself to the new schedules, and with the prospect of non-interference from the congress before them the members of the manufacturing and trading community would make the best of the situation created.

But will the new measure satisfy the class from which the demand for "downward revision" has come? The demand has been made by the "ultimate consumer." What will be his verdict on the new schedules a year after they have gone into effect? The answer is not difficult. If there is no reduction in the cost of living his complaints will be renewed and another period of agitation will ensue.

No Permanent Division in Party.

It will be for future presidents to do as President Taft has done—to answer for the country at large, and, holding the tremendous power of the veto in reserve, impress upon tariff makers the necessity of taking a national along with a local view of revision. President Taft did not censure or lecture the senators and representatives who came to him under the spur of home influences, and only pointed out that as the representative of the people he must do his part from the national viewpoint alone. And he did his part with resolution and success. The new law will be the better for the part he took in framing it.

The contest has been full of ginger, with now and then a display of acrimony, but a permanent division in the Republican party as a result is not at all likely. Other duties will now present themselves, and the party must advance to them in as good fighting shape as possible.—Washington Star.

Outlook for New Tariff Law.

The Dingley law had a life of 12 years. But it should have been revised eight years ago. Had McKinley lived such action would have been taken. What will be the length of the new law's life? It need not be long, even if the measure is successful. Inequalities may grow up under it as rapidly as under the Dingley law. If it fails, either as a revenue raiser or as an adjuster of differences, the end, of course, will speedily come.

Its Hopes Unfounded.

The Democratic Rochester Herald, in noting Bryan's surrender of Nebraska honors, expresses the pious hope that he will "soon love his happy home in Texas more than the White House in Washington." Nothing but Col. Bryan's departure to Mexico or some other foreign country would really justify a hope that he has renounced his first love.

Position Hard to Determine.

The Democrats have fought valiantly in the contest over the new tariff bill, not only from all angles, but from every point in a circle. It was often hard to tell, however, whether the positions which they occupied were offensive or defensive—whether they were fighting against or for the bill.

The KITCHEN CABINET

SIDNEY SMITH'S SALAD DRESSING

TWO large potatoes, passed through kitchen sieve, Unwonted softness to the salad give.
Of mordant mustard add
a single spoon,
(Distrust the condiment which bites too soon).

But deem it not, though
made of herbs, a fault,
To add a double quantity
of salt.
Three times the spoon
with oil of Lucca
crown,
And once with vinegar procured from town.

True flavor needs it, and your poet begs,
The pounded yellow of two well-boiled
eggs.
Let onion atoms lurk within the bowl,
And, half suspected, animate the whole.

And lastly, on the favored compound
toss,
A magic teaspoon of anchovy sauce.
Then, though green turtle fail, though venison is tough,
Though ham and turkey are not boiled
enough,
Serenely full the epicure shall say:
"Fate cannot harm me—I have dined to-day."

English News.

The officials of one workhouse have recently substituted suet puddings for meat. This may cause such a change as to rob England of her old claim to being the loafer's paradise.

At a recent congress of food chemists the "colloidal" was frequently used. This applies to the heady quality of the beer.

As one English paper says, the consumer, too, becomes "colloidal" after drinking it.

Manchester has a newly established School for Mothers, and their first rule is to make "the evenings as bright as possible for father." That looks as if the suffragettes had succeeded in turning the tables!

Marshmallow Icing.

Boil together a cup sugar and one-third cup water. Pour this over the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs, stirring all the while. Then to this add one scant cup of finely chopped marshmallows. It will melt gradually, when it may be poured over the cake.

Banana Croquette.

A Summer Salad.—For a party of six take six perfect bananas, peel, dip each banana in mayonnaise dressing, then roll each one in nuts which have been ground very fine. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

THE CHILDREN'S KEYS.

EARTS, like doors, open with ease
To very, very little keys;
And don't forget that they are these:
"I thank you, sir" and "if you please."

And don't forget "Beg pardon," too,
If any naughty thing you
do.
Or, if you like best, "pardon me,"
'Tis just as well, we all agree.

Or if "Excuse me" you
but say,
You are quite sure to have your way.
The grown-up folks will not refuse you;
From room or table will excuse you.

"Excuse me"—"thanks"—"beg pardon," too,
All three, and "if you please,"
They unlock all the doors of hearts;
They are the children's "keys."

"Beg pardon," and "excuse me"—Of course it is a foregone conclusion that all right-minded parents teach their children, early, to say both.

But do they teach them the distinction? Tell them that when they step on your toe, or pass between you and your guest, they must say "beg pardon," or "pardon me." On the other hand, when they want to leave the table or be allowed to leave the room, "excuse me" is the correct form of apology.

In short, "beg pardon" is the phrase for any breach of manners, any slip of decorum. But they should say: "Excuse me," when wishing to leave your presence. This may seem straining a point of etiquette, but it is so easy to teach these distinctions to young minds; let us not wait until the incorrect expression is a fixed habit.

Child Labor Laws.

In one of the recent sociological publications is the significant picture of a boy, with a sweet, smiling, but drawn and pinched face; an undersized head in a shabby cap; a ragged jacket covering thin, sloping shoulders—he appeared to be about ten years old, even less; by no stretch of the cruelest imagination could he have been 12. But his parents have put him to work in a glass factory in Pennsylvania. They exempted themselves from prosecution under the "Child Labor Law," on the sworn affidavit that he was 14.

"Fourteen by Affidavit"—so the picture reads; a picture of this victim to parental greed and economic injustice.

Prune Roll a la Laura.

DISCOURAGED WOMEN.

A Word of Hope for Despairing Ones.

Kidney trouble makes weak, weary, worn women. Backache, hip pains, dizziness, headaches, nervousness, languor, urinary troubles make women suffer untold misery. Ailing kidneys are the cause. Cure them. Mrs. S. D. Ellison, N. Broadway, Lamar, Mo., says: "Kidney trouble wore me down till I had to take to bed. I had terrible pains in my body and limbs and the urine was annoying and full of sediment. I got worse and doctors failed to help. I was discouraged. Doan's Kidney Pills brought quick relief and a final cure and now I am in the best of health."

THOSE NEW HATS.

"Come into the garden, Maud,"
Said facetious-minded Fred.
"What's the use?" said Maudie—
"I have it on my head."

The Newer Way.

Many ideas in regard to women have entirely changed, and among the better and wiser changes is that old thought that the women who were given to good works must needs be dowdy. It is undeniable that "good" women used to wear dowdiness as a sort of hall mark of virtue. As a matter of fact, dowdiness is merely a mark of bad taste and a sign of some lack in the mind. Women are no longer lacking in the wisdom that chooses pretty rather than ugly clothing, and those who do not make the best of their appearance are losing a golden opportunity of giving pleasure.

Aid Fight Against Tuberculosis.

At the recent meeting of the National Association of Bill Posters, held in Atlanta, Ga., it was decided to donate to the campaign against tuberculosis $1,200,000 worth of publicity. The bill posters in all parts of the United States and Canada will fill the vacant spaces on their 3,500 bill boards with large posters illustrating the ways to prevent and cure consumption. The Poster Printers' association has also granted $200,000 worth of printing and paper for this work. This entire campaign of billboard publicity will be conducted under the direction of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in co-operation with the National Bill Posters' association.

Fitted for the Job.

The general consulted the topographical chart. "You understand, colonel," he said, "that this charge on the enemy's fortification necessitates the most reckless disregard for human life?" "I understand, general," the colonel replied. "The forlorn hope that leads the movement will be composed exclusively of amateur chauffeurs."

Self-Made.

"I might say to you, young men, that I am a self-made man."

"In what respect?" asked an impertinent youth.

"In this respect, if you must know," replied the orator. "I made myself popular with men who had a pull and thus obtained my present lofty position."

The mere fact that a man doesn't call you a liar is no reason that he doesn't think you are one.

The Artless Boy.

The boy bowed politely to the grocer.

"I understand," he said, "that you want a boy, sir. Will you kindly look me over."

"I only pay $3," said the grocer, abruptly.

"I understood," said the boy, "that you paid four."

The grocer nodded.

"I did pay four," he said, "until I saw in the paper the other day that Millionaire Rogers began his business career on $3 a week."

The boy smiled.

"But I don't expect to be a millionaire," he said. "I don't care to be rich—I'd much rather be good."

The grocer was so much pleased with this artless reply that he compromised with the boy for three and a half.

A Realist.

"I am a great believer in realism," remarked the poet.

"Yes?' we queried with a rising inflection, thereby giving him the desired opening.

"I sometimes carry my ideas of realism to a ridiculous extreme," continued the poet.

"Indeed!' we exclaimed inanely, somewhat impatient to reach the point of his witticism.

"Yes," continued the poet, "the other day I wrote a sonnet to the gas company and purposely made the meter defective."

At this point we fainted.

Look at the Names.

In 4 A. D. Fearaidhach-Fionfashtna was an Irish king, a "most just and good prince," who was slain by his successor, Fiachadh-Fion, who was treated to a similar fate by Finchadh-Fionohudh, "the prince with the white cows," who died at the hands of "the Irish plebeians of Connaught." Eochairh-Moidmeodhain was one of the half dozen who died of natural causes, and Flaithbheartagh was one of the two to resign the monarch's sceptre for the monk's cowl.—New York Press.

Prepared for the Worst.

"How long had your wife's first husband been dead when you married her?"

"About eight months."

"Only eight months? Don't you think she was in a good deal of a hurry?"

"Oh, I don't know. We had been engaged for nearly two years."

BOAT BURNS TO WATER

PASSENGERS AND CREW OF THE STEAMER ARE SAVED.

Escapes from Vessel of Passengers, Most of Whom Were Women and Children, Exciting.

Peoria, Ill.—The steamer Fred Swain, Capt. Verne Swain, of the Peoria & Lasalle Packet Co., with its 25 passengers and 15 sailors aboard, burned to the water after the flaming craft had been piloted into four feet of water and the occupants had escaped to the bank of the Illinois river, up which the steamer was bound when it caught fire. No lives were lost but Joseph Casrider, the engineer, was burned about the face and body, and Charles Reicheberger of Peoria suffered a broken arm. The loss is $35,000. Several of the passengers lost their belongings.

The escapes from the burning vessel of the passengers, most of whom were women and children, was exciting and at one time when flames were discovered issuing from a state room on the second deck, panic reigned. Fears were partly calmed as the burning steamer drew nearer shore and scores of rowboats were seen hurriedly putting out to the rescue.

The gang plank was lowered to the water's edge when the steamer had been beached and one rowboat after another took off a load of passengers and sailors. After two boats had loaded and started for shore the gang plank caught fire and fell away from the steamer, letting 15 persons, including several women and children into the water. Thomas Powers of Peoria and E. A. Caron of Worcester, Mass., who were on the plank when it fell, each saved the life of two children, half carrying and half swimming with the tots on their back and shoulders to old tree stumps to await the arrival of rescuers. The others who were thrown into the water by the collapse of the gang plank were taken in boats to safety. Those still aboard the steamer managed to let out a new gangway at a place farther from the flames which were rapidly creeping over the boat.

DEATH CLAIMS TWO BATHERS

Girl Gives Up Her Life in a Futile Effort to Save Male Companion —Both Expert Swimmers.

Wildwood, N. J.—In a futile effort to save the life of W. Brooke Lessig, a very well-known Philadelphia lawyer with whom she was swimming in the surf at Wildwood crest, Miss Virginia Paul, one of the leaders in the younger set of Philadelphia society, was also drowned in the swift ocean current.

Miss Paul was a stepdaughter of Clarence Jeffries, a Pennsylvania official, and resided at Swarthmore, Pa. She was about 21 years old. She and Mr. Lessig were guests at the cottage of Morton Z. Paul, at Wildwood Crest. They entered the surf at a point below the regular bathing grounds and after the life guards had gone off duty. Both were expert swimmers and were soon beyond the breakers.

After they had been swimming for some time members of their party on the beach noticed Lessig threw up his hands as though in trouble. At first they did not appreciate his danger but soon noticed Miss Paul swimming towards him. She also waved toward the shore and appeared to be calling for help. A swift current seemed to be dragging both swimmers further and further from the shore. Realizing at last the struggle which was going on before them, those on the beach ran to the life saving station and notified the crew. A boat was hastily launched and an effort was made to reach the struggling bathers. Lessig had disappeared from view in spite of Miss Paul's efforts to reach him. Miss Paul continued her unequal battle with the rough surf, but before the life boat reached her she too had been swallowed by the huge waves.

MONEY IS CERTAINLY FIRMER

Higher Range of Prices for Cereals Has Encouraged the Movement from the Farms.

New York City.—Bradstreets says: Jobbing trade and manufacturing industry tend to expand as the vacation season wanes and harvest possibilities grow into certainties. From a number of markets, however, come the reiteration of reports that purchasers take hold conservatively and that retailers are still cautious buyers. Currency shipments to the country are enlarging and money is certainly firmer.

Something like a sobering process has been witnessed in the securities markets, which are lower all around. Perhaps the most encouraging features reported come from a few of the leading industries. The higher range of prices for cereals, particularly winter wheat, has encouraged the movement from the farms, and the number of idle cars has decreased.

Many of the fields of late cabbage are rotting and a few others are being saved by the application of water from lines of hose.

The Harrisburg postoffice received a sheet or paper about eight by ten inches in size which was folded into the shape of an envelope. It covered a letter and was sealed with an old-fashioned seal. It bore the postmark of Harrisburg, Pa., April 3, 1827. It bore no postage stamp but the legand that ten cents postage had been paid on the letter. It was addressed to N. P. Hobart, Esq., Reading, who was auditor general from 1836-39, and sent by Francis R. Skunk, who was afterwards governor of Pennsylvania. James Peacock was postmaster of Harrisburg at that time.

Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust ordered 18 suits against violators of the Murphy pure food law. Two of these were against Harrisburg men who sold mushrooms which contained sulphurous acid and it is expected that arrests will follow within a short time. The other suits ordered were in the following counties: One milk case, Allegheny county; one preserved cherry case, Allegheny county; two sausage cases, Washington; one lard case, Venango; one vinegar, Washington, and four ice cream cases, Washington. Three suits against dealers who sold baking powder containing alum and three cases against dealers in pickles in Blair county.

The United Sports of Pennsylvania have accepted the proffer of the Columbia Rod and Gun club's bungalow, grounds and boats and will hold their annual meeting there on September 14 and 15. The meeting will be the first held by the association and two trophies have been offered for the heaviest black bass. Fish Commissioner Meehan is a director of the association and he has offered a split bamboo bait bass rod, which is known as the Meehan trophy. It will go to the man catching the heaviest bass in any stream in Pennsylvania between the dates, September 1 and 11. Only individual members are eligible. The bass must be landed with a single rod and line. If the man catching the bass is a member of the local camp the fish must be weighed in before two members of the camp. If he is a member of the association and not of any local camp, the fish must be taken before a notary public. There are 21 camps in the state and over half of them have accepted the invitation to attend the convention. Each camp is entitled to send three delegates.

The name of every Pennsylvania soldier who fought in the battle of Gettysburg is to be placed on the memorial to the veterans to be erected there by the state. Bronze tablets will be placed around the base and the names carved thereon. It is desirous that these names shall be correctly spelled and that the name of no man who was engaged in the battle be omitted. The members of the commission desire that the surviving soldiers of each regiment engaged at Gettysburg will assist them in revising the lists, correcting the spelling of names, etc., and they, therefore, wish to find the whereabouts of all regimental organizations or where there are no regimental organizations, they wish to obtain the names of surviving officers or soldiers who will take sufficient interest in the matter to go over the rolls and revise the list. Forward to Comrade St. Clair A. Mulholland, U. S. pension agent at Philadelphia, information that will enable him to correspond with survivors' association or surviving members who will take an interest in the matter.

Three hundred and forty-six certificates for physicians who have passed the state examinations were sent out recently from the department of public instruction.

A new order has gone into effect on the Pennsylvania, which requires all shippers of household goods to pay the freight in advance. This order was promulgated on account of the many shipments made by foreigners who invariably refuse to pay the freight when their goods reach their destination.

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted—where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL

to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Home Paper Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

JOB PRINTING We can do the finest class of printing, and we can do that class just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Wedding invitations, letter heads, bill heads, sale bills, statements, dodgers, cards, etc., all receive the same careful treatment—just a little better than seems necessary. Prompt delivery always.

Trouble for Midnight Sons.

"Now that the doctors are locating lies by means of X-rays," said the little grass widow, "I don't know what's to become of the men. It'll be worse than having a wife who sees what they are doing in a sort of psychic trance and tells them all about it when they get home in the wee hours of the morning."

Bad Outlook for Boy.

NURSE—Wanted, a robust, God-fearing Scotch nurse who can teach the shorter catechism, and has a working knowledge of the business side of a slipper, to take charge of a four-year-old boy who has a double dose of original sin. Apply, stating wages required to X Y Z, care of Clarke & Son, stationers, Guilford.—From an English Exchange.

A COMMON ERROR.

The Same Mistake is Made by Many Emporium People.

It's a common error.
To plaster the aching back,
To rub with liniments rheumatic joints,
When the trouble comes from the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.
And are endorsed by Emporium citizens.

Mrs. Anna Zimmet, W. Fourth St., Emporium, Pa., saps: "I suffered from kidney trouble for years and though I doctored and used numerous remedies I could get no relief. I had backache, pains through my loins, severe headaches, and a constant feeling of languor and depression. The kidneys were much disordered and the secretions passed so frequently as to cause me great annoyance. I finally learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box from Taggart's drug store. I am now seldom troubled with backache. My kidneys have been strengthened and I feel better in every way. I strongly advise anyone suffering from kidney trouble to use Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Woman's Bright Idea.

It was a woman who had an idea when her chickens kept disappearing from the roost. She painted the legs red and when six disappeared in one night she went with a policeman to the places where chickens were offered for sale and in one crate found her fowls all dressed for the market, but still with their painted legs.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the pleasant, safe, sure, easy little liver pills. A salve you may always depend upon in any case where you need salve, is DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve—especially good for Piles. Sold by all druggists.

Korean Grass.

The Korean grass used in the manufacture of grass cloth is grown very thickly and is usually cut the second or third year after planting the roots. The grass reaches a height of four to five feet, and with a proper start and under favorable conditions yields, it is roughly estimated, about 3,000 pounds to an area corresponding to an acre.

People with chronic bronchitis, asthma and lung trouble, will find great relief and comfort in Foley's Honey and Tar, and can avoid suffering by commencing to take it at once. Sold by all druggists.

Worth Boasting About.

"What was the best job you ever did?" inquired the first barber. "I once shaved a man," replied the second barber. "Go on." "Then I persuaded him to have a hair cut, shampoo, facial massage, singe, seafoam, electric buzz, tar spray and tonic rub." "What then?" "By that time he needed another shave."

If you are all run down Foley's Kidney Remedy will help you. It strengthens the kidneys so they will stimulate the impurities from the blood that depress the nerves, and cause exhaustion, backache, rheumatism, and urinary irregularities, which sap the vitality. Do not delay. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once. Sold by all druggists.

A New City a Thousand Years Old.

Budapest, whose front is circled with lights like a crown, whose hills rise dark and feathery above the river, whose parliament buildings run along the bank and are second to none but Westminster—Budapest, bright, flashing, gay, beautiful, modern and rich, ardent and executive, close built and amalgamative, blender of peoples—is the product of only a few decades, and yet at its last exposition it celebrated its thousandth birthday. Pest, to the right of the river—for the cities are twin and divided by the Danube—Pest dates back to 1200, and Buda was the Ofen of the Romans. Buda climbs up the opposite hill, today magnificently new, but sown round with green crumbling walls that mark the passing of the original founders whose painted galleys came up the Danube from the Black sea. The twentieth century civilization, sharply new and powerful, must for a moment be brushed aside and the Buda of mediaeval times put in its stead.—Marie Van Vorst in Harper's Magazine.

Gathering Cloves.

Cloves are now cultivated in many of the tropical regions of the earth. A clove tree begins to bear at the age of ten years and continues until it reaches the age of seventy-five years. There are two crops a year, one in June and one in December. The tree is an evergreen and grows from forty to fifty feet high, with large oblong leaves and crimson flowers at the end of small branches in clusters of from ten to twenty. The tree belongs to the same botanical order as the guava. The cloves, which are the undeveloped buds, are at first white, then light green and at the time of gathering bright red. Pieces of white cloth are spread under the trees at harvesting time, and the branches are beaten gently with bamboo sticks until the cloves drop. They are dried in the sun, being tossed about daily until they attain the rich dark color which proclaims them ready for shipment.

Cards and Their History.

Cards are square shaped pieces of pasteboard printed with various devices and employed as a business medium by money changers. They are usually made up in packs of fifty-two, one for each week of the year. A good many people play cards for pleasure, in which case their opponents are said to be buying experience. In most card games the rule is that the cards may be cut, but not otherwise marked. This rule is not strictly observed in games in which only three cards are used. Indeed, the marking of cards has attained a high degree of perfection since the introduction of numerous card index systems. Fashions change in card games as in everything else. Old maid, for instance, is nowadays seldom played in the best clubs. Playing cards should not be confused with score cards, which are rather larger, or with visiting cards, which are smaller.—Fry's Magazine.

CLAY'S FIRST SPEECH.

It Began In Confusion, but Ended In a Triumph.

Henry Clay as a young man was extremely bashful, although he possessed uncommon brightness of intellect and fascinating address, without effort making the little he knew pass for much more. In the early part of his career he settled in Lexington, Va., where he found the society most congenial, though the clients seemed somewhat recalcitrant to the young lawyer. He joined a debating society at length, but for several meetings he remained a silent listener.

One evening after a lengthy debate the subject was being put to a vote when Clay was heard to observe softly to a friend that the matter in question was by no means exhausted. He was at once asked to speak and after some hesitation rose to his feet. Finding himself thus unexpectedly confronted by an audience, he was covered with confusion and began, as he had frequently done, in imaginary appeals to the court, "Gentlemen of the jury."

A titter that ran through the audience only served to heighten his embarrassment, and the obnoxious phrase fell from his lips again. Then he gathered himself together and launched into a peroration so brilliantly lucid and impassioned that it carried the house by storm and laid the cornerstone to his future greatness, his first case coming to him as a result of this speech, which some consider the finest he ever made.

When Baseball Was an Infant Industry.

It was a crude game, but merry. In theory the pitcher was there only to give the boys a chance to "soak the ball." "First bound" was still out. The unfortunate catcher, handling a heavy, lively ball without mask, glove or protector, stood up near the bat when men were on bases if he had the skill and courage. The early guides recommended him to do so when he could. Had not the pitcher been restricted to an artificial throw scarce a catcher would have lived to tell the tale. Many catchers took everything "on first bounce" and managed at that to prevent much base stealing. Base running also was in its infancy. "Smith," says the Spirit of the Times, "caught a remarkable game, having but five passed balls scored against him." Here and there we get a glimpse which shows how crude it all was, what a matter of hit and miss natural force. In the fifties Dicky Pearce shone without a peer as an infielder. He used to stop grounders with his hand and foot!

That Lame Back Means Kidney Disease
And to Relieve the Lame and Aching Back, You Must First Relieve the Kidneys

There is no question about that at all—for the lame and aching back is caused by a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder. It is only common sense, any way—that you must cure a condition by removing the cause of the condition. And lame and aching back are not by any means the only symptoms of derangement of the kidneys and bladder. There are a multitude of well-known and unmistakable indications of a more or less dangerous condition. Some of these are, for instance: Extreme and unnatural lassitude and weariness, nervous irritability, heart irregularity, "nerves on edge," sleeplessness and inability to secure rest, scalding sensation and sediment in the urine, inflammation of the bladder and passages, etc.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are an exceptionally meritorious remedy for any and all affections or diseased conditions of these organs. These Pills operate directly and promptly—and their beneficial results are at once felt.

They regulate, purify, and effectually heal and restore the kidneys, bladder and liver, to perfect and healthy condition—even in some of the most advanced cases.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill., want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them, and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail postpaid.

FAIR EXCHANGE.

A New Back for an Old One. How it Can be Done in Emporium.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless, piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Emporium residents would do well to profit by ths fo'lowing example.

Mrs. Geo. E. Weiss, 442 N. St. Michael St., St. Marys, Pa., says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney complaint and bachache. I had headaches and dizzy spells, was unable to get up without supporting myself and could not bend or stoop without suffering intensely. The kidney secretions were also unnatural and plainly showed that my kidneys were disordered. I became very near discouraged but finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills on a neighbor's recommendation. My strength and ambition soon returned and the pains and aches disappeared. I cannot speak too higly of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Why Druggists Recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Frank C. Haurahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Na., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purpose that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Testifies After Four Years.

Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. R. Burhans, writes: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of these symptoms, and I am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you. Sold by all druggists.

Colic Quickly Cured.

Colic is one of the most severe and painful diseases. It is quite common, too. Almost everyone has an occasional attack. Fortunately there is a remedy that always affords quick relief and has never been known to fail in any case. It is called Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Tod Robinson, a prominent merchant of Point Blank, Texas, says: "I have had several attacks of colic and in every instance one dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy relieved me, and I never had to take more than two doses to effect a cure." For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Do not be deceived by unscrupulous imitators who would have you believe that the imitation pills are as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. There isn't anything just as good as these wonderful pills for the relief of Backache, Weak Back, inflammation of the bladder, urinary disorders and all kidney complaints. Any one can take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills as directed in perfect confidence of good results. Sold by all druggists.

Price 25 cents. For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Many people delude themselves of saying, "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy, and stop the drain on the vitality. It cures backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and makes every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble dissappear.

To the Public.

The Society is devoting much energy to building up a permanent annual fair which the county will be proud of. It is endeavoring to associate with the fair a general picnic alike for the farmers and their friends—a time for social intercourse, the enjoyment of innocent sports and for tual admiration. Good substantial buildings are on the grounds where people may congregate and where stock may be sheltered. Competent watchmen will be provided by the management to protect and care for all. exhibits during the continuance of the fair.

Everybody welcome. Admission 10c. Season Ticket 25 cents.

The location of the ground is within easy five minutes walk from the heart of town. There will also possibly be hacks running to and from the park and town.

Books of entry will be open at the office of F. G. JUDD, Fourth street, Emporium, Pa., on and after Tuesday, Sept. 14th, 1909, when they will be at the Park Pavillion. Any person can enter as many articles for exhibition as he or she may own.

All exhibitors must have their articles or animals entered on the Secretary's books and be in their place for exhibition previous to 12 m. on Sept. 15th. Unless they are so entered and placed they will not be put upon the premium list.

Entries must specify exhibitor's name and the name and age of the animal or article offerd.

No animal or article can be entered for more than one premium.

When entries are made, exhibitors will be furnished with cards designating the number of the entry. This card to be attached to the article or animal exhibited.

No article or animal shall be removed before the close of the exhibition without permission of the superintendent given in writing.

Prizes given only for exhibits owned or raised by residents of Cameron county.

Outside exhibitors if their exhibits warrent it, will receive a diploma of merit.

Premiums will be withheld where there is satisfactory evidence of compromise or collusion.

Gambling in any form on the grounds will be strictly prohibited.

Any exhibitor interfering with the judge in the discharge of his duties shall forfeit all claims he may have in the premium list.

No person will be chosen as Judge in the class in which he is an exhibitor.

Judges will not note any other articles or animals than those enumerated on the list furnished them by the superintendent.

Any article or animal which in the opinion of the Judges deserve special commendation will be so reported.

When articles or animals are not deemed worthy of a premium the Judges will refuse an award whether there be but one or more exhibited.

In each case where there is an exhibit of merit and but one article exhibited, half the advertised premium will be paid.

Orders for all premiums will be mailed to the persons to whom awarded within thirty days after the close of the fair.

If you desire any information in regard to the business of the exhibition, pay no attention to rumors or hearsay, but go at once to the superintendent who will take pleasure in giving you all desired information.

Try It on The Hills

Test this car at half speed on a hill or sand road where power and every ounce of it is needed. Notice how steadily and powerfully it pulls when running slowly under load.

The capacity of the Rambler engine for doing this extra work is most noticeable at low engine speeds. This is because of the offset crank shaft.

Rambler
The Car with the Offset Crank Shaft

All that power which in other engines is lost through friction on the bearings and cylinder walls, is added to the driving force by the Rambler offset crank shaft. It reduces friction, eliminates hammer on bearings, gives more power. The straight-line-drive delivers the power direct and with least frictional loss to the rear axle.

Let us demonstrate these features and the silence and comfort of this car.

Let us call at your home, and take you to your place of business some morning in a Rambler.

Disinfect

Some disinfectants and germicides might be classed as drugs but, you do not want to be drugged just now with a bug killer. However, now is the time to think of getting after the rose bugs and currant worms.

We have a full line of the "remedies" for that class of pests. Also a non-poisonous bed bug exterminator in small cans.

Makes for Safety in Mines.

To prevent an explosion of dust or gas in the event of an incandescent globe breaking in a mine, a new lamp has been devised in which the usual globe is inclosed in another, filled with air. Should either globe break it is said the air would extinguish the carbon before it could ignite the dust or gas.

THE LOVES of the LADY ARABELLA

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL

(Copyright, 1906, Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

SYNOPSIS.

At 14 years of age Admiral Sir Peter Hawkshaw's nephew, Richard Glyn, fell deeply in love at first sight with Lady Arabella Stormont, who spurned his attentions. The lad, an orphan, was given a berth as midshipman on the Ajax by his uncle. Giles Vernon, nephew of Sir Thomas Vernon, became the boy's pal. They attended a theater where Hawkshaw's nephew saw Lady Arabella. Vernon met Philip Overton, next in line for Sir Thomas Vernon's estate. They started a duel which was interrupted. Vernon Overton and Hawkshaw's nephew found themselves attracted by pretty Lady Arabella. The Ajax in battle defeated French warships in the Mediterranean. Richard Glyn got £2,000 prize money. He was called home by Lady Hawkshaw as he was about to "blow in" his earnings with Vernon. At a Hawkshaw party Glyn discovered that Lady Arabella was a poor but persistent gambler. He talked much with her cousin Daphne. Lady Arabella again showed love for gaming. Later she held Glyn and Overton prisoners, thus delaying the duel. In the Overton-Vernon duel, neither was hurt. Lady Arabella humiliated Richard by her pranks. Richard and Giles shipped on a frigate. Giles was captured by the French. Sir Peter arranged for his exchange. Daphne showed a liking for Glyn, who was then 21 years of age. Giles was released. Giles and Richard planned elopements. Sir Peter objected to the plan to wed Daphne. By clever ruses Giles and Richard eloped with Lady Arabella and Daphne, respectively. The latter pair were married. Daphne was pleased; Arabella raved in anger. When the party returned, Arabella asked Sir Peter to aid in prosecuting Giles in court on the charge of committing a capital crime. All attended the trial. Upon Arabella's testimony Giles was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. Sir Peter visited the prince of Wales in effort to secure a pardon for Giles. Arabella threw herself at the feet of Overton, whom she had loved for many years. He spurned her.

CHAPTER X.—Continued.

Arabella turned pale, and replied:

"I was summoned as a witness. I was obliged to testify."

Overton said nothing. Then Sir Thomas, taking snuff with his usual grace, remarked:

"I listened with attention to one lawbreaker praying for another lawbreaker. Of course, you know, this meeting of yours is seditious—and many a man has been stood in the pillory for it."

"And one man," replied Overton, "Jesus Christ, was crucified for it."

He turned, and with me, took the path back to the tavern. I heard, as we went on, an altercation behind me, and involuntarily, after we had gone some distance, I looked back. Lady Arabella was struggling in the grasp of Sir Thomas Vernon, while Mrs. Whitall looked on, and wrung her hands. Sir Thomas, however, was no match for Arabella's young strength. She broke away from him, and, running after us, caught up, panting and breathless, with us, as we entered the little grove. And then I saw an almost exact representation of the scene when Giles Vernon had insanely and with unmanly groveling and violence pleaded with Arabella for her love—so she pleaded with Philip Overton. She held him by the arms, when he would have thrown her off.

"Philip! Philip!" she cried. "I did it for you! I determined to make you rich, great, even if you refused my fortune. Sir Thomas can not live long. Surely, you can not reproach me, if all the world does. The stupid, stupid world thinks I did it under the influence of Sir Thomas Vernon; but no, it was not hate for Giles Vernon, it was my love for you, Philip Overton, that made me appear at the York assizes."

"Remember yourself," said Overton to her, sternly. "Others besides yourself see your degradation!"

"It is no degradation to love truly, to love as I do. Speak but one word to me, and I will become a Methodist like yourself. I, too, will go among the poor, and serve and love them; and I will even love God for your sake!"

The awful grotesqueness of this, the blasphemy of it, was altogether unknown to her. She continued wildly:

"Does not my soul need saving as much as those clods you have been praying with?"

"You blaspheme!" replied Overton, casting her off.

And, to make the resemblance between her own unwomanly conduct and the unmanly conduct of Giles Vernon the more singular, she recovered herself, as he had done, in a single moment of time. She laid her hand on Overton's arm, and looked keenly into his eyes. Her glance seemed to enchain him, and to set her free. She breathed a long sigh, and, turning, gazed about her, like a person awaking from a nightmare. Then, with perfect self-possession, she dropped a curtsey to us both, and said, in her natural, playful manner:

"Mr. Overton, I see I have been mistaken. I should have tried to cheat the law by not appearing when I was summoned; or, I should have testified falsely. And for my indiscreet conduct just now, let me tell you, for seven years I have been under a spell. It is now broken forever. Titania once loved Bottom, the weaver; but not always. I bid you good day, Capt. Philip Overton, and you, Mr. Richard Glyn. And I trust Giles Vernon's life may be saved, if only to keep you, Capt. Overton, as poor as you deserve to be. For myself, I shall shortly marry—perhaps, Sir Thomas Vernon—then, neither of you will get the estates. Good morning!"

And she was gone, flying along the field, with a white mantle streaming after her, and her flight as rapid as the swallows in spring.

CHAPTER XI.

At 12 o'clock that night Sir Peter arrived at the tavern, and with the pardon.

The expectation of his coming, and the greater matter upon which we were engaged, prevented my mind from dwelling longer upon the strange scene I had witnessed between Overton and Lady Arabella. Overton did not speak her name to me, and showed much sympathy for us. When Sir Peter's chaise drove up to the door of the Bear and Churn, another chaise with four horses was waiting, and into it we huddled, bidding Overton a hurried farewell; and in another moment we were off for York, the horses doing their best.

Sir Peter then told me the circumstances of his visit to Windsor. The prince, who was always most powerful when the king was on the verge of madness, saw his father and found him comparatively rational. The story being broached to him, he appeared interested, and even grew more collected as his attention was chained. He recalled at once Sir Peter Hawkshaw and the capture of the Indomptable and Xantippe, and corrected the prince when he spoke of Sir Peter as vice-admiral of the White. It was a very easy matter to get his signature to the pardon, and the necessary seals and formalities took some little time but no trouble, and when Sir Peter presented himself at the castle on Sunday all was prepared for him.

We felt now comparatively safe. There was little doubt that we could reach York at least 24 hours in advance of the date set for the execution; our letters would precede us, giving positive assurances of hope; and we looked for no accidents, having a new and strong chaise.

"Mr. Overton, I See I Have Been Mistaken."

After Sir Peter had told me his story, I told him mine about Lady Arabella and Overton. He was not much imbued with the kind of religion that Overton preached, although he swore roundly by church and state, and was always a great churchman when he was slightly in liquor, which did not happen often. He therefore condemned Overton's sermon, which I tried to repeat to him, as a damned, beastly low sort of religion, unfit for a gentleman to practice; but he admitted that Overton lacked neither brains nor courage. For Lady Arabella, though, he had the stern disapproval of an honest heart, and in his excitement swore both long and loud because of the short-sightedness of Providence in permitting such women to exist for the undoing of his majesty's officers of both services.

We made good progress that night and the next day, which was Monday, and began to have strong hopes of reaching York Wednesday night. But on Monday, in the afternoon, the weather suddenly changed, a violent snowstorm set in, and our postboys willfully, I think, drove us ten miles out of the way, near a tavern where they hoped, no doubt, we would agree to stop until the storm should be over. But Sir Peter, putting one of his great horse-pistols to the postboy's head, forced him to turn back to the high-road. We lost three hours by this; and when we got to our next posting stage, our horses, engaged two days ahead, had been taken. We got others, after a frantic effort, but at the end of that day's journey we saw our margin of time diminished exactly one-half.

I shall not attempt to describe the fierce and gnawing impatience which consumed us, nor the awful and unspoken dread which began to overshadow us. Sir Peter was a man of stout heart, and had no more notion of giving up at this stage of the affair than he dreamed of surrendering when he saw the Indomptable to windward and the Xantippe to leeward.

The weather, however, grew worse instead of better, and even four horses could scarcely drag us through the mire made by the snow and rain. In spite of all we could do our progress diminished, although at no time did it seem hopeless, until—O, God! 20 miles from York, at midnight on the Thursday, Sir Peter himself suddenly gave out; the strain had proved too much for his brave heart and sturdy frame. It came as the horses were wallowing along the road in the darkness, and I, holding my watch in my hand, was glancing at it every ten minutes, by the feeble light of the traveling lamp. I spoke to Sir Peter as he lay back in the chaise wrapped in boat-cloak, and got no answer. He was unconscious. Without stopping the chaise I got some brandy, which I tried to pour down his throat, but could not. I grew much alarmed—it was not like Sir Peter to refuse good brandy, and as we were passing a farmstead, I stopped the chaise, knocked the people up, and had Sir Peter carried into the house. I met with kindness, and I repaid it with coin of the realm. Sir Peter soon revived, and his first words were:

"Push on, my lad. Don't wait to repair damages."

I found that his seizure was really trifling, and he assured me he would be able to resume the journey by daylight, the farmer agreeing to furnish him horses; so, in half an hour I had again taken the road.

And ten miles from York, the chaise broke down!

I had the horses taken out, and, mounting the best beast, made for York at the top of his speed, which was poor—the creature was already spent with traveling.

It was just daylight, and streaks of golden glory were lighting up the pallid dawn; I urged the poor beast onward. Seven miles he went, then he dropped dead, just as the sun was gilding the spires of York cathedral. Before me, along the road, jogged an itinerant tinker on a rather good-looking horse, the tools of a tinker's trade hanging from a moth-eaten saddle. I was young and strong—he was middle-aged and ill-fed and feeble. I ran up to him, holding five guineas in my hand.

"Lend me this horse to ride to York!" I cried.

The man, astonished at my abrupt address, stopped, but gave me no answer. I made my own answer, though, by dragging him off the beast, dashing the five guineas on the ground, and clattering off, throwing away the tools and kettles as I galloped along.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

INHERENT LOVE OF THE SOIL.

Characteristic That Is the Most Deeply Planted in Mortals.

The first man was a gardener, we are told. Certain it is that the first men were tillers of the soil, after they ceased to be wandering warriors. That is where we get our love of nature, declares a writer in the Kansas City Journal. That is why we build parks and have flowers clambering about our premises. That is why we are strangely at peace when we get out into the mountains and lose ourselves among the fragrant woods. That is why we loathe at times the smell of paint that is on civilization and long for the perfume of the life that is close to the green leaves and the wild flowers. That is why we are so happy when we camp out and why we are so reluctant to return. That is why our earliest recollections of the "old farm" are the sweetest and tenderest of our lives. That is why we crack a joke at the "simple life" and "back to nature" and all that—when somebody is around—and why we know, away down in our hearts, that the simple life is the life most worth living and that we cannot get close to anything sweeter or purer than nature, "Mother" Nature, whose sons and daughters we are, from whom we may wander far, but to whom we return as prodigals, finding the prodigal's welcome and the prodigal's peace..

Discussed Over the Prunes.

"Why is it, Miss Willing, that fat men always have the prettiest wives? I seldom see a jolly, fat man with an ugly, cross looking wife. By Jove, those fellows just go in and win the pretty women every time."

"Well, Mr. Hammerslee, I can account for that. You see, a husband should be a sort of bromide, should have a soothing effect. Fat men are placid, calm, jolly and good providers. They like the good things of life themselves, and they like to see their wives well dressed, and to sit down to a good table. No wonder women like them better than they do lean, dyspeptic, nervous, cranky men, who find fault, nag, and are stingy. Men like this want a lot of waiting on and attention, they are generally jealous and selfish. Fat men hate a fuss, seem to understand that wives are as fond of being spoiled and of having good clothes and good dinners as other women are, and hence women naturally marry men of this temperament."

First Aid for British Army.

The British army is considering the adoption of the Utermohlen system of first aid surgical dressings, which have been in use in the Dutch army for several years. The packets are small and light. One dressing is so designed that a man can unpack and place the antiseptic pad upon his wounded arm by using the other hand only, the packet being unloosened by pulling certain strings with the teeth and shaking the dressing out of the containing paper. It consists of a square pad, to which are attached bandages, and these being pulled apart enable the dressing to be fixed by wrapping and to be tied with great celerity. The larger packets contain two similar dressings, which can be applied to the orifices of entry and exit of a bullet.

PROMISING STRAWBERRY CROP CUT SHORT BY HEAT

Early Pickings Came Soft and Light in Color, Striking an Unreceptive Market Glutted With Low-Grade Southern Berries.

A very promising strawberry crop was cut short by drought and extreme heat following the unusually cool and moist weather of late May, says Rural New Yorker. The early pickings came soft and light in color, striking an unreceptive market, glutted with low-grade southern berries. Fair fruits realized less money than at any similar time for many years. Quality and prices steadily improved, however, until the full effects of the hot wave became apparent in lessened size and impaired flavor. The average yield per acre of good commercial plantings for the season would probably not reach 3,000 quarts, and the average price of first-class berries cannot be estimated at more than seven cents the quart, thus bringing possible profits to very moderate figures. The variety Success proved a heavy cropper, perfecting its berries better than kinds maturing later. Probably greater revenue is to be credited to this productive early variety than to any of the later ones, notwithstanding the low prices prevailing at the beginning of the season, as it has been the most generally planted. It is admitted to be too soft for shipment, but is locally liked for its good size, fine color and satisfactory quality. The plant is a most thrifty and healthy grower. The bloom is staminate, furnishing abundant pollen for other sorts as well, and there are always plenty of strong runners, making propagation easy and certain. William Belt shows increasing weakness in plant, but the berries are as well liked as ever, surpassing all other established kinds for table quality. It will be long planted, but is not likely to maintain its present local importance. Glen Mary fell from grace this year, and may have difficulty in regaining its previous standing as an indispensable market variety. Vigor and productiveness are its strong points. It is a fair shipper, but quality and appearance are rarely commendable, though there are even less attractive kinds in general cultivation. The main reason for growing it is that it is normally a great basket filler and a reliable, though not excessive plant maker, spacing its runners about right for matted row culture. The blooms are imperfectly staminate, and do not always take kindly to pollination from other sources, thus resulting in many knotty and mal-formed berries. The results of excessive humidity at the blooming time of Glen Mary were apparent in the green-tipped and unattractive fruits as they appeared when packed for shipment. Strawberries of this class must "make good" every year to retain their popularity. President finished its handsome fruits as well as usual, but the weakened plants produced only a light crop. Gandy in heavy soils ripened a profitable crop, notwithstanding the intense heat prevailing at the time. While rarely a bountiful yielder, and too sharp in quality for many palates, Gandy remains one of the most satisfactory and dependable late strawberries for the grower who plants in moist, rich soil and affords proper cultivation. Introduced in 1884 as a cross between Glendale and Jersey Queen, it holds its own in this locality as the firmest, handsomest and most generally desirable of late varieties.

VINE CUTTER ON CORN PLOW

Prevents Clogging of Shovels and Also Breaking Off or Covering Up of Plants.

To prevent the clogging of the shovels on a corn plow and also the breaking off or covering up of the corn while plowing, bend a piece of old wagon tire, three feet long, as indicated at A and attach it to the beam of the plow close to the arch.

This cutter should be bent out from the beam so as to be in line with the first, or inside shovel.

Three holes should be drilled in the bar of the cutter so that it can be adjusted to set deep or shallow as desired.

Use of Manure.

The Maryland experimental station shows by repeated tests that fresh manure spread in winter did not give as much increase as the same amount rotted and plowed down in the spring. Turning the manure while rotting was better than leaving it without being turned. Commercial fertilizers plowed under in the spring invariably gave larger yields than when sowed on the surface just before planting.

Home Surroundings.

The environments of your home may not be just what you would like, but there are few farms that cannot be made beautiful by the right application of labor and skill. Study your case and do the best you can with the means at your command, and you will see how your home can be made attractive. Trees, vines and flowers can be made to work wonders.

FARMER SHOULD FIGURE COST

Only Practical Way of Telling Which Are the Best Paying Crops for the Farm.

A story is told of a lawyer who was employed by a railroad company on account of his shrewdness to secure the right of way through a certain part of Texas. With most of the farmers this lawyer had no trouble in securing the right of way through their lands, many of them giving it without any compensation. But there were a few farmers who would get out a pencil and go to figuring. They figured that the land would be worth as much, or more, to the railroad company as it was to them. And those farmers always received a good price for the land they relinquished for the right of way. The lawyer remarked that whenever he saw a farmer take out a pencil and go to figuring that he would have to pay that man full value of his land, and he called them "figurin' farmers." There is a good substantial moral to this little story. Every farmer ought to be a "figurin' farmer." He ought to figure on what it costs him to raise the different crops, and what he receives for them. It is the only way he can tell which are the best paying crops for his farm. He should keep a book for this purpose. It will only require a very small amount of time each day to keep these accounts and it will be time most profitably employed.

No Eggs for Horses

It has been claimed that it is a good thing to feed eggs to stallions during the breeding season, but a noted New England veterinarian says a well-nourished horse would not be greatly benefited by being fed eggs. It is a fact that eggs are highly nutritious and might be used to advantage if an animal lacked vitality. However, the digestive system of the horse is not capable of digesting animal proteids and consequently he would not be able to secure the full benefit of such foods.

The Bumble Bee.

The bumble bee is a friend of the farmer. In sections where cloverseed crops are depended upon the value of the bumble bee as an agent in fertilizing the clover blooms is fully appreciated. A knowledge should be had of the useful as well as the destructive insects, which would prove that the farmer has quite as many good insect friends as he has destructive ones.

CRYING NEED, AS HE SEES IT.

Companion of Irritated Divines Came to the Front with Order to the Waiter.

Joaquin Miller is to establish a colony of poets in Fruitvale, Cal. Mr. Miller, discussing this colony recently, said:

"We poets will, of course, argue and squabble. That will be delightful. Arguments and squabbles over Matthew Arnold, Swinburne, Tennyson, and Keats are pleasant and sensible things, you know. They are not like political or religious arguments, which in their bitter rancor always make me think of three Maine divines.

"While three Maine divines were supping together, two of them began to argue about the comparative religious merit of the royal houses of Stuart and Orange. The argument became heated. The divines grew excited and angry.

"'William III. was a great rascal,' roared the first, as he struck the table with his fist. 'A great rascal, and I spit upon his memory!'

"The second divine turning very red, shouted:

"'No, it's James II. that was the rascal. I spit upon his memory!'

"At this point the third divine rang the bell, and said gently to the waiter:

"'Spittoons for two, please.'"

IN AGONY WITH ECZEMA.

Whole Body a Mass of Raw, Bleeding, Torturing Humor—Hoped Death Would End Fearful Suffering.

In Despair; Cured by Cuticura.

"Words cannot describe the terrible eczema I suffered with. It broke out on my head and kept spreading until it covered my whole body. I was almost a solid mass of sores from head to foot. I looked more like a piece of raw beef than a human being. The pain and agony endured seemed more than I could bear. Blood and pus oozed from the great sore on my scalp, from under my finger nails, and nearly all over my body. My ears were so crusted and swollen I was afraid they would break off. Every hair in my head fell out. I could not sit down, for my clothes would stick to the raw and bleeding flesh, making me cry out from the pain. My family doctor did all he could, but I got worse and worse. My condition was awful. I did not think I could live, and wanted death to come and end my frightful sufferings.

"In this condition my mother-in-law begged me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I said I would, but had no hope of recovery. But oh, what blessed relief I experienced after applying Cuticura Ointment. It cooled the bleeding and itching flesh and brought me the first real sleep I had had in weeks. It was as grateful as ice to a burning tongue. I would bathe with warm water and Cuticura Soap, then apply the Ointment freely. I also took Cuticura Resolvent for the blood. In a short time the sores stopped running, the flesh began to heal, and I knew I was to get well again. Then the hair on my head began to grow, and in a short time I was completely cured. I wish I could tell everybody who has eczema to use Cuticura. Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 135 Thomas St., Newark, N. J., Sept. 28, 1908."

For the Hostess

Chat on Topics of Many Kinds, by a Recognized Authority

An Unique Party.

There are "novelties in entertainment" at the seashore as well as in town, and this scheme of a New Jersey girl is one that "took" wonderfully. The affair was held on the broad piazza surrounding the house that faced the grand old ocean.

The invitations were for a "bottle" party; each guest was requested to bring a bottle (empty) any size or shape. Of course every one wondered what the result would be when the motley collection of bottles appeared on the table waiting to receive them.

After a few moments spent in speculating as to the future of "those bottles," the hostess brought in yard lengths of crepe paper of many colors, cotton, pins, odds and ends of ribbon, etc., and requested each guest to select a bottle and transform it into a doll; there was a supply of corks to use in forming heads, which were covered with cotton.

A half hour was allowed to finish these creations; prizes were awarded for the best, worst and funniest.

Next the hostess passed cards with pencils attached, numbered from 1 to 20; the guests were taken into a room in which stood 20 bottles, each bearing a tag numbered from 1 to 20. Yellow paper concealed the contents of the bottles, which were pill size up to gallons. One "sniff" or "whiff" was permitted, then the supposed contents were written down opposite the number on the card.

Lavendar salts, bottles of cologne, and sachets were given as prizes.

The next test was very pretty. Each guest was blindfolded and led around the room in which flowers were arranged in vases on mantel and tables. The one who recognized the most flowers by the odor received a handsome nosegay surrounded by a frill of lace paper.

The refreshments consisted of flower forms made in ices and creams with dainty little cakes ornamented with candied rose and violet leaves.

For a Children's Party.

There have been so many requests for a children's party that I have made a special effort to get these pretty ideas for decorations, feeling sure that mothers could adapt for their own use the schemes suggested.

Clown cakes will be much appreciated by youthful guests; bake a simple cake mixture in small round muffin pans. Frost some with white, some with chocolate, making eyes, nose and mouth of contrasting color. Around each put tiny frills of colored crepe paper and the cakes will look like funny faces beneath little bonnets.

With these serve circus lemonade. Take large smooth skinned lemons, cut off one end, hollow out and place in ice water. Cut off black court-plaster eyes, nose and mouth. dry the shells and paste these on in as grotesque a manner as possible. Then make little dunce caps of red and white stiff paper, leaving a hole at the top to receive a straw; fill the cups with lemonde, put on the caps, stick in the straws and they are ready to serve.

For a centerpiece have a tiny tent, with miniature animals in a procession. At each child's plate have a wee tent of paper, a flag on it, with a rail fence of opera sticks around it. Under each tent have salted peanuts.

Have striped paper bags filled with popcorn and the small guests will be perfectly delighted with the "circus" party.

A Potato Supper.

Church suppers have been and probably always will be a commercial asset in raising money. A "ladies' aid" society issued these catchy invitations, which were printed in red on common brown wrapping paper and scattered broadcast in the hotels and boarding houses of the seashore resort, where summer visitors helped out largely in furnishing the wherewithal to run the little church during the long nine months of winter. I give the invitation so that our readers may cut it out for future use, as the scheme is adaptable for any time or place:

A sociable next Friday night!
Look down below, first left, then right,
And you will see the "Bill-of-Fare"
In English language written there:
POTATOES HOT, POTATOES COLD,
POTATOES NEW, POTATOES OLD.
Some we will boil and some we'll bake,
And some serve in a hot loaf-cake;
Potatoes also we'll prepare
In brown croquettes as light as air,
And some make up in griddle-cakes
As nice as any French cook makes.
And then dessert—for those who wish
We will prepare some dainty dish,
"Fit for the gods," you'll think, we know,
Though mostly made of potato.
This sociable is to be given
Between the hours of four and seven,
At —— Hall next Friday night,
And one and all we here invite;
Be sure to come; don't be afraid.
Your presence will—"THE LADIES AID."
MADAME MERRI.

Sequins play a leadng part in fan decoration.

Military straps are among the popular sleeve trimmings.

TROUBLE IN ROYAL PALACE.

Tidings Borne by Amateur Actor Sufficient to Lead Hearers to Expect the Worst.

The Shakespeare club of New Orleans used to give amateur theatrical performances that were distinguished for the local prominence of the actors. Once a social celebrity, with a gorgeous costume, as one of the lords in waiting, had only four words to say: "The queen has swooned." As he stepped forward, his friends applauded vociferously. Bowing his thanks, he faced the king and said, in a high-pitched voice: "The swoon has queened."

There was a roar of laughter; but he waited patiently, and made another attempt:

"The sween has cooned."

Again the walls trembled and the stage manager said, in a voice which could be heard all over the house: "Come off, you doggoned fool."

But the ambitious amateur refused to surrender, and in a rasping falsetto, as he was assisted off the stage, he screamed: "The coon has sweened."—Success Magazine.

GAVE HER AN IDEA.

Cycle Dealer—Here is a cyclometer can recommend. It is positively accurate; not at all like some cyclometers, which register two miles, perhaps, where you have only ridden one.

Miss de Byke—You haven't any of that kind, have you?

Severe.

Samuel Gompers was talking in the smokeroom of the Baltic about a recent newspaper attack on a rich corporation.

"It was a cruel attack," Mr. Gompers chuckled. "It was as cruel as the Jonesville Clarion's paragraph about old Deacon Hiram Ludlow.

This paragraph headed the Clarion's obituary column. It said:

"'Deacon Hiram Ludlow of Frisble township, aged 82, passed peacefully away on Thursday last from single blessedness to matrimonial bliss after a short but severe attack by Maria Higgins, a blooming widow of 37 summers.'"—Detroit Journal.

Your Salary.

The universe pays every man in his own coin; if you smile, it smiles upon you in return; if you frown, you will be frowned at; if you sing, you will be invited into gay company; if you think, you will be entertained by thinkers; and if you love the world and earnestly seek for the good that is therein, you will be surrounded by loving friends, and nature will pour into your lap the treasures of the earth. Censûre, critise and hate, and you will be censured, criticised and hated by your fellow men.—N. W. Zimmerman.

And Ma Fainted.

"Why did she refuse you?" she asked her son, with fine scorn.

"Well," the boy replied between his sobs, "she objects to our family. She says pa's a loafer, that you're too fat and that everybody laughs at Dayse Mayme because she's a fool and talks about nothing but the greatness of her family." (Chauncey threw water in his mother's face, but at three o'clock this afternoon she was still in a swoon, with four doctors working on her.)—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

BAD DREAMS
Caused by Coffee.

"I have been a coffee drinker, more of less, ever since I can remember, until a few months ago I became more and more nervous and irritable, and finally I could not sleep at night for I was horribly disturbed by dreams of all sorts and a species of distressing nightmare.

"Finally, after hearing the experience of numbers of friends who had quit coffee and were drinking Postum, and learning of the great benefits they had derived, I concluded coffee must be the cause of my trouble, so I got some Postum and had it made strictly according to directions.

"I was astonished at the flavour and taste. It entirely took the place of coffee, and to my very great satisfaction, I began to sleep peacefully and sweetly. My nerves improved, and I wish I could wean every man, woman and child from the unwholesome drug—ordinary coffee.

"People really do not appreciate or realize what a powerful drug it is and what terrible effect it has on the human system. If they did, hardly a pound of it would be sold. I would never think of going back to coffee again. I would almost as soon think of putting my hand in a fire after I had once been burned.

"A young lady friend of ours had stomach trouble for a long time, and could not get well as long as she used coffee. She finally quit coffee and began the use of Postum and is now perfectly well. Yours for health."

ROBERT ADAM.

He Created a New Era In English Architecture.

Robert Adam (1728-92) was to English architecture what Benvenuto Cellini was to that of Italy. He was architect to the king, beloved at court, a member of parliament, and it was said of him that he "could not help adorning all that he touched." Those of the English people who dwell in Adam houses prize them as rare jewels.

Adam introduced into English architecture a lightness, delicacy of touch and charm of proportion which it had never before possessed and which gave his name to that splendid period of architecture the style of which lasted over a century. Everything in a house, from the panel in a ceiling to the vases and gilt wood tripods and branches for lights, from hangings at the windows to a woman's hairpin holder. Adam designed himself.

Adam got his rich, beautiful and distinctive style from the ruins of the Emperor Diocletian, at Spalato. As a finish to interiors he conceived the idea of using figures in relief upon walls, colored and adorned according to Raphael's Stanze painted flat upon the walls of the Vatican. His idea was as bold as its result was beautiful. He also adopted Pompeiian styles of decoration.

"Adam was artist as well as architect, and his walls, ceilings and interior adornments are marvels of harmonious colors," says an architect. "He employed no less personages than Angelica Kaufman and Zucchi to paint many of the panels and medallions let into his ceilings, and it was his habit to have carpets woven to match the pattern overhead and harmonize with the color there employed. The keynote of Adam's style is 'movement,' combined with perfect artistic fitness, and it is peculiar for its grace and stateliness."—New York Tribune.

Worse Than His Own.

A gentleman who owns one of the finest estates in the north of England while in his gardens one morning noticed one of the laborers very badly clad and asked him:

"Have you no better clothes than those, Mat?"

"No, in troth, yer honor, worse luck," replied Mat.

"Well, call at the house this evening on your way home," said the gentleman. "I'll leave an old suit of mine with the butler for you."

A few days later when showing a party of visitors through the gardens he was much annoyed to see Mat looking if possible more a scarecrow than ever.

"Why are you still wearing those old clothes, Mat?" he asked.

"Sure, yer honor, they're the best I have," replied Mat.

"But did you not get the suit I left for you the other day?" asked the gentleman.

"Indeed, an' I did, thank yer honor kindly," replied Mat; "but, sure, I had to lave them at home to be mended."—London Tatler.

A Rhineland Legend.

There is a Rhineland legend of three German robbers who, having acquired by various atrocities what amounted to a very valuable booty, agreed to divide the spoil and to retire from so dangerous a vocation. When the day appointed for this purpose arrived one of them was dispatched to a neighboring town to purchase provisions for their last carousal. The other two secretly agreed to murder him on his return that they might divide his share between them. They did so. But the murdered man was a closer calculator even than his assassins, for he had previously poisoned a part of the provisions, that he might appropriate to himself the whole of the spoil. This precious triumvirate were found dead together.

Salt Codfish Omelet.

Soak a piece of salt codfish about six inches square overnight. Split six crackers and lay them in cold water, just enough to cover them. In the morning pick the fish fine and mix well with the soaked crackers, three well beaten eggs and a piece of butter the size of an egg, also salt and pepper. Take one quart of milk and add to it one dessertspoonful of flour. Boil five minutes and pour over in the dish in which it is to be baked. Bake twenty minutes.—Boston Post.

Regatta In England.

The first regatta in England was in 1775, and it was imported into that country by Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, who had been impressed by the water show of Venice. There was no series of races. There was a procession of city barges to a "temporary octagon," where there was reveling that night and well into the next day. Only seven of the company were drowned on the return journey, which speaks well for the average sobriety of the crowd.—London King.

Breakfast Hours.

A traveler stopped at a hotel in Greenland, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk.

"What time do you have breakfast?"

"From half past March to a quarter to May."—Harper's Weekly.

Boring the Bores.

"What do you do to get rid of bores?"

"Just as soon as they come into my office I start in telling them of the latest cute thing my baby said."—Detroit Free Press.
